CHAMBER MUSIC AT BIG TWIG

ROSCOE – Weekend of Chamber Music presents the first of its Sundays at Big Twig series at 3 pm March 26. The Big Twig Studio and Gallery is near Tennenah Lake in Roscoe, overlooking the Pocono Mountains and the Delaware River Valley.

Flutist and artistic director Judith Pearce, violinist Sunghae Anna Lim, cellist Alberto Parrini and pianist Marija Stroke play the Haydn Trio in G Major for flute, cello and piano; Elliott Carter's "Enchanted Preludes" for flute and cello; Ravel's Sonata for violin and piano, and after a short intermission, Beethoven's Trio Opus 1 No. 3 in C minor, for piano, violin and cello.

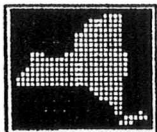

The New Yorker says Pearce is " ...a rare and beautiful performer..." Among her many notable collaborators have been Sir Simon Rattle and Peter Maxwell Davies. She and violinist Lim, who the Boston Herald said has "A tone of silvery purity..." teach at Princeton University, where they are also members of the Richardson Chamber Players. Mr. Parrini tours regularly as a member of the American Chamber Players, and has earned the praise of the Los Angeles Times for his "...refined playing." And Marija Stroke, a pianist who was praised by The Strad for her "...magnificent perception and sensitivity..." is a noted soloist, recitalist and founding member of the Apollo Trio.

Come a little early and enjoy Carolyn Duke's beautiful gallery of pottery and other art, and meet the artists in a reception following the program.

Open to the public, admission is $18; and free for students under 18. Call 845-932-8527 for information or reservations.
